SEL Environmental Ltd

Training Policy Statement

SEL Environmental Ltd recognise that Health and Safety training is a very important part of the health and safety culture and it is also a legal requirement, under the Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations and other regulations, for an employer to provide such training.

Training will be provided on recruitment, at induction or on being exposed to new or increased risks due to:

- Being transferred to another job or given a change in responsibilities.
- The introduction of new work equipment or a change of use in existing work equipment.
- The introduction of new technology.
- The introduction of a new system of work or the revision of an existing system of work.
- An increase in the employment of more vulnerable employees (young or disabled persons)
- Particular training required by the organisation's insurance company (e.g. specific fire and emergency training)

We also recognise that additional training may well be required following a single or series of accidents or near misses, the introduction of new legislation, the issuing of any enforcement notice or as a result of a particular risk assessment or safety audit.
